

Kermanshah University of Medical Sciences Member – Ali Gorgin Karaji

Ali Gorgin Karaji

Department of Immunology, School of Medicine,
University St., Shahid Shiroudi Blv., Kermanshah, Iran.

Tel: +98 08334274618

Fax: +98 08334276477

Email: a_gorginkaraji@kums.ac.ir

My main interest is to study the effect of drugs for the treatment of allergic rhinitis on immune cells involved in the development of rhinitis, as well as to find new treatments for allergic rhinitis. My other interests are infectious diseases, studying the effective defense mechanisms against microbial infections and improving the methods of diagnosing these diseases.

دانشگاه علوم پزشکی و خدمات بهداشتی، درمانی کرمانشاه
Kermanshah University Of Medical Sciences

Publications:

1- Falahi, S., Mortazavi, S.H.R., Salari, F., Rezaeimanesh, A., Gorgin Karaji, A. Association between IL-33 Gene Polymorphism (Rs7044343) and Risk of Allergic Rhinitis. Immunological Investigations, 2020

2- Lotfi, R., Davoodi, A., Mortazavi, S.H., Gorgin Karaji, A., Rezaeimanesh, A., Salari, F. Imbalanced serum levels of resolvin E1 (RvE1) and leukotriene B4 (LTB4) in patients with allergic rhinitis. Molecular Biology Reports, 2020, 47(10), pp. 7745–7754

3- Halashi, B., Tarokhian, H., Sayad, B., Salari, F., Karaji, A.G. Comparison of the sensitivity and specificity of modified rose Bengal and ELISA test in the diagnosis of brucellosis. Scientific Journal of Kurdistan University of Medical Sciences, 2020, 25(3), pp. 1–13